Inspired by the extravagant and lavish lifestyle of the French Rococo era aristocrats, the combination of red and gold gestures royalty. The color red is associated with feelings of passion, intimacy and power, while gold is connected with extravagance, richness and even the slightly traditional. The mixture of these two colors not only brings warmth to your wedding but creates a mood of grandeur and class for you and your guests no matter what your budget might be.

Olde Good Things was first started by a couple of ladies selling items at the flea market to raise money for orphanages they supported through their church. Now, it has grown to multiple stores across the United States, selling authentic hard-to-find items mostly from the late Victorian era to the mid-20th century. You can find anything and everything from crystal doorknobs, to a hand-hammered 1920s iron lighting fixture from Argentina, to custom-made mirrors with vintage copper frames using cornice. To this day, a portion of Olde Good Things' proceeds continues to support multiple orphanages around the world.
