theme of 'Cardinal Sin' and about forbidden fruit, and then it hit me! A gold tree!" For her, this represented both the Tree of Life and a tree of forbidden fruit. "It's good and wicked, all in one!" she says.

In keeping with this dual theme, Nancy used "Cherry Love" and "Black Magic" roses. Her other florals included gold-sprayed manzanita branches and burgundy dahlias and dianthus.

Nancy then began development for the paper products. "I worked with the designer of Alia Designs, to create place cards, invitations, and menu cards that were sexy, like a corset." The gold, corset-shaped invitations featured a cherry-red band and gold threading. These products tied together the many aspects of her theme for a very grand and elegant look.
